It's already raining. Now it's getting dark and a few dim lights illuminate the street. Fortunately, your surveillance isn't hampered by the elements, as the suspect you're observing comes into clear view about 150 yards away.

Whether on a routine surveillance, surveying a hostage situation, or responding to a chemical spill, Steiner's new Police binoculars are built to demanding military standards to offer the brightest detail and stand up to the toughest conditions. Field-tested, combat proven, fogproof, waterproof and shock-resistant the Police models will take the rigors of daily use. Their lightweight and incredible depth of field allows maximum user comfort during long hours of extended use.

The Police binoculars will be sold exclusively through law enforcement and public safety distributors, and to the agencies they service.

If your agency or department has purchased lesser binoculars due to budget restraints, look at it like this: you'll get a binocular that will last 10 times as long, work much better, especially in critical conditions, at only fractionally more in initial cost. The Police models are covered with a 10-year service plan and warranty that covers any optical or mechanical defects.
